STUDENT LIFE 1987

Hollins is changeless in that its gleaming pillars and shadowed walks are far from worldly strife, but its strength leads us to an active lifestyle in the changing world outside. Though our futures are uncertain, we can always rejoice in our college memories. With a hope that it may preserve all the happiness, strength and inspiration you have gained at Hollins, the yearbook staff present to you the 1987 Spinster.

STUDENT LIFE

Beginnings

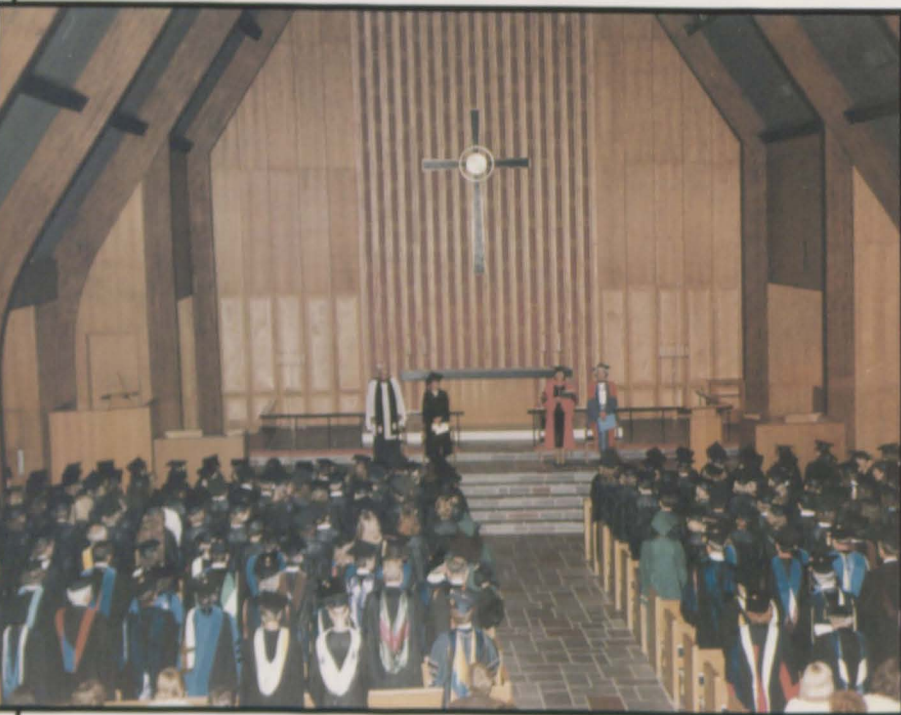

The Start Of A New Year

Activity on campus increased during the last weeks of August as Resident Assistants, Dorm Presidents, SGA officers, and Group Leaders returned to campus for the respective training programs. A variety of new faces were added when the new students arrived on September 7, 1986. They were greeted by Movers and Shakers (SGA officers), their group leaders, and their dorm presidents. The next few days were filled with activities as the new students met with their group leaders and advisors to learn more about Hollins and its traditions.

Returning students arrived September 9th, amid much laughter and confusion, as they greeted old friends and met new ones. On September 10th, the college was formally opened with Convocation in DuPont Chapel. Classes began September 11th and the year was off to a fast-paced start!

Convocation

A Cap and Gown Occasion

Opening Convocation marked the beginning of a new year at Hollins. For many seniors, it was a matter of trying to balance caps and keep tassles out of their eyes. For all students, it was a time to reflect on summer and return their minds to books and classes.

Mary Wadland, president of the Student Government Association, spoke to the student body and faculty saying, "... it is naturally my hope and challenge to all of us that we exercise our imaginations, intelligence, and motivations. ..." She likened the variety of Hollins students working together and merging talents to the colors of a rainbow. She closed by wishing students success in the coming year.

President Paula Brownlee followed with her address. She stressed the point that the Hollins College campus is part of the "real world" now, not an insulated oasis of unreality. Campus experiences are no different from experiences in the so called "real world." Responsibilities, opportunity, difficult challenges, loneliness, joy, sadness, grief, hope, and love — all are part of real living and all are a part of college life. The Convocation was ended by a benediction by Chaplain Rod Sinclair and a reception followed on Front Quad.

Tinker Day

A Nice Day For A Hike

"Hear ye, Hear ye . . .

I have been told — by winged messenger, spirits of the air, mountains and water, that the Great Spirit Tinker —

Let it be known that:

I hereby declare today, October 8, 1986 to be and forever shall live in memory as:

President Brownlee officially opened the Tinker Day festivities with this rousing speech, given from the front steps of Main.

Tinker Day

A Nice Day for a Hike

After several false alarms, the bells began ringing early on October 8th, signaling that Tinker Day had arrived. It was cold that morning, so students found it necessary to bundle up over pajamas to wait in line outside the Moody Center in anticipation of Krispy Kreme doughnuts for breakfast.

Students returned to their rooms to dress in crazy costumes, then they met on Front Quad for the official Presidential declaration of Tinker Day. The group then headed for the mountain to begin their hike. Although some thought they would never reach the top, all eventually arrived. After everyone had a chance to catch their breath, the different classes each sang songs to the others. Once the songs were completed, the group moved to another area where the seniors served the underclassmen the traditional fried chicken lunch with Tinker cake for dessert.

Skits were then performed by the different classes, which were highlighted by the five little pigs and imitators representing students from various local colleges. After the skits and the ADA induction ceremony, students and faculty began the walk back down the mountain. The rest of the day was spent relaxing by many.

Seniors claim their spot on the rock. The view from the top of the mountain includes the Hollins campus and part of the community of Hollins.

The sophomores perform their skit for the gathered audience. Each class performed a skit for the other students and faculty.

In The Fall

A Busy Season

A wide variety of extra-curricular activities kept students busy during the hours outside of classes. The first few weeks of school were filled with Sister Class socials, FNIB's, cookouts, and a welcome back "Aloha" party on Moody patio. Mixers in the dining hall and the Rathskellar with groups such as Heinsohn and Day kept students entertained.

broadcasting live from local Virginia colleges. Mattie Cocke's birthday, with Professor Jake Wheeler posing as Miss Mattie, was a chance for students to enjoy conversation, singing, cake, and ice cream. The new school year was off to an exciting start!

Fall Activities

A Busy Season

Students had a wide variety of activities to get involved with during the fall semester. The Activities Fair was held so that new students could become more aware of the different clubs and organizations on campus and could begin to get involved. The Class of 1990 had their first elections and experienced Step Singing. Delany Cain was elected freshman class president. Many of the clubs began gearing up for their various conferences and productions for the semester as new members made themselves known.

Jenifer Lewis, formerly of "Dreamgirls" on Broadway, performs in the Hollins Little Theater.

Jenifer Lewis, a performer described in The New York-Times as "the very essence of show business" performed at Hollins on October 22nd, sponsored by the General Speakers Fund. Lewis presented "From Billie to Lena with Jenifer," a review of seven black female vocalists who have influenced her: Billie Holliday, Ethel Walters, Mahalia Jackson, Dinah Washington, Aretha Franklin, Lena Horne, and Tina Turner. She is a singer, dancer, and comedienne and all three were obvious from her performance in the Little Theatre.

Freshman experienced Step Singing for the first time after their elections.

Fall Activities

A Busy Season

The Dean of Students office prepared a busy schedule for those parents who came to visit Hollins over Parents Weekend, October 17-19. Parents were invited to attend class with their daughters during the day on Friday. Friday evening there was a reception at the President's house. Saturday morning there was a faculty forum for the parents and mini-classes in the afternoon. There was also a hike and a tennis match scheduled for interested parents. On Sunday there was a brunch in the dining hall, followed by a morning chapel service.

Swimming Center Dedication

A Back Quad Addition

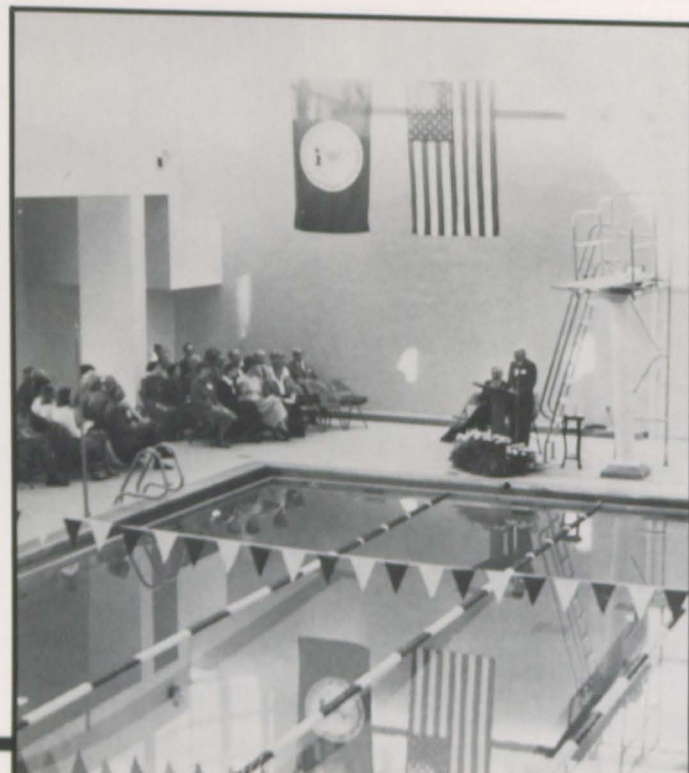

The swimming center was named in honor of Mrs. Mary Moody Northen, a former trustee and longtime friend of Hollins, who passed away in August 1986. Although there were several delays, construction was completed for the dedication ceremonies held on October 31 and November 1, 1986.

President Brownlee, joined by Lynda Calkins, Mary Wadland, Laura Miller, Betsy Akers Crawford, and Paul Funkhouser, poured water from the old swimming pool in Tayloe Gymnasium into the new pool. The water's transfer symbolized the continuity of an active athletic tradition at Hollins, as was said by President Brownlee in her closing remarks. An exhibition by the new swim team, the dedication of the Lucille Shanklin Hull lobby, and a reception followed.

Saturday morning, November 1, there was an Open Swim and Relays in the pool, followed by a luncheon and fashion show entitled "Styles That Made A Splash", in the Moody Center. It was a showing of historic swimming costumes from the Rutgers University collection, with Hollins swim team members doing the modeling.

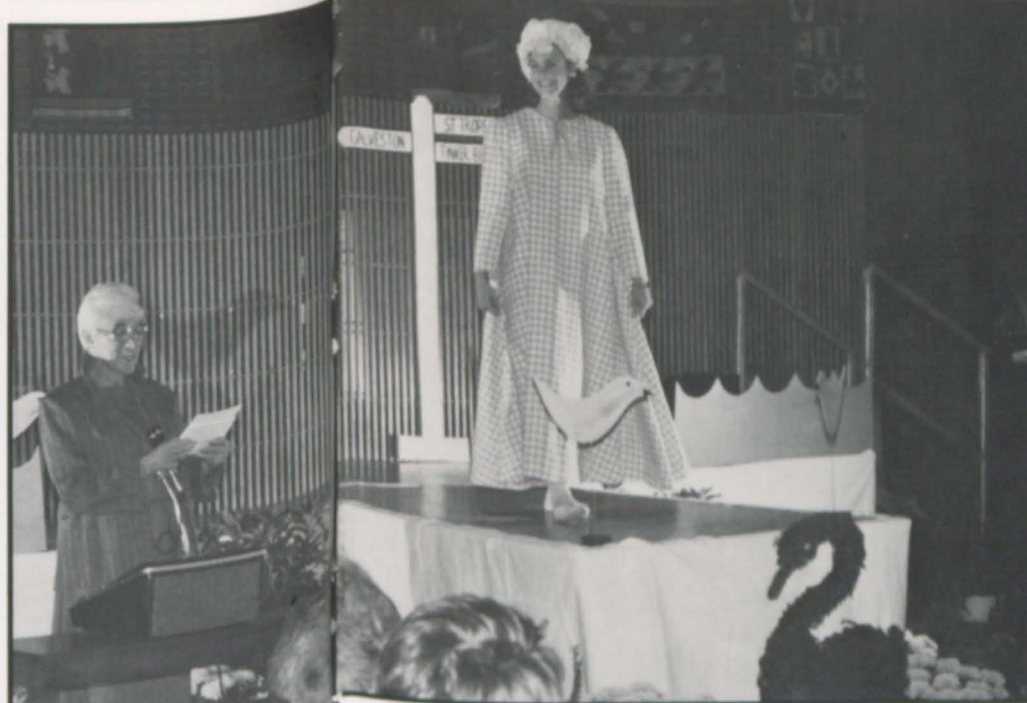

It's Laura Miller's turn to pour the water, as Lynda Calkins, Mary Wadland, Paula Brownlee, and Betsy Crawford look on.

Mr. George Orcutt speaks to the guests in the new swimming pool complex.

During the luncheon, Laura Miller models one of the bathing suits for the guests.

Fall Weekend

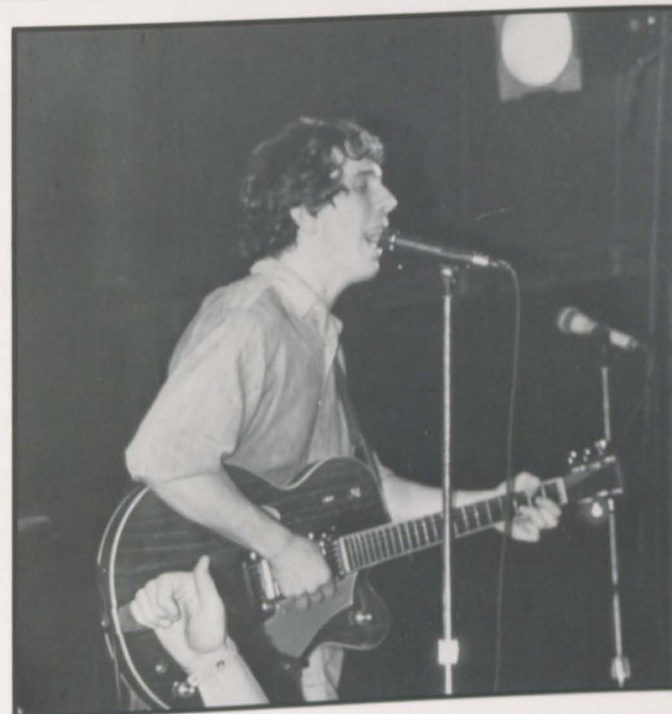

... In the Fall!

Carol Hunt and Lesley Richards relax and enjoy the band.

The Grandeurs have the crowd on their feet and dancing.

Last year's was swept away, but this year's could not be quenched. Fall Weekend was the weekend of November 7th, 8th, and 9th. Paige Smith, the Campus Activities Chairman, was the chief organizer of the weekend. She explained that it took five weeks of planning to arrange for the popular cups, t-shirts, and posters with their leaf designs; the three different bands for the weekend; and the $8,000 that the weekend cost.

Friday night came with the Waxing Poetics, and waxing they were, borrowing the songs of progressive groups such as R.E.M. and U2. Saturday night and the showmanship of the Grandeurs, who have a style like the Four Tops "got us all jammin'," according to Smith. Sunday brought with it AAE, a group of Rastafarians, for an afternoon of relaxation. They brought the weekend to a delightful close.

Mimi Erving, Jill Gushwa, and Nicole Green arrive as three of the California raisins.

Bitsy Greenwald, Brooksley Burke, and Penni Hobbs are entertaining the crowd with their skit.

Ring Night

A Memorable Evening

Ring Night for the junior class, held Monday, Nov. 10th and Tuesday, March 17th so that all juniors had a chance to participate, was the night that the juniors received their rings. During the day juniors dressed in a variety of funny costumes and participated in songs and skits in the dining hall during lunch. A special dinner was planned for the juniors and skits were performed after the dinner was completed. Costumes included Sesame Street characters, the Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders, the Brady Bunch, the California raisins, Peter Pan characters, and the Three Blind Mice. After dinner, the senior ring sisters presented the juniors their rings in a variety of different ways. For many, receiving their ring was well worth the wait.

The alternate beverage arrived at the party in the shape of Ann Croxson, Louisa Bartok, Leslie VanDell, and Beth Lyons.

Kristen Evans' beverage is in an unusual container.

Flood Anniversary

A Raincoat Parade

On November 4, 1986, Hollins celebrated the first anniversary of the flood. Activities included "The Morning After" breakfast, consisting of cereal, doughnuts, and bagels and the Golden Rule lunch, in which the students received soup, toast and a salad, and the savings from the meal were donated to the Roanoke Valley Red Cross. The parade was held on Front Quad with students in their rain gear singing "Raindrops Keep Falling On My Head" and "Singin' In The Rain." The official "Flood Dinner" followed in the dining hall.

Students gather on Front Quad in their raincoats with signs with flood slogans.

Performing Arts

A Night for the Theatre

The Drama Association and Orchesis, the dance group on campus, each have one major production during the semester. The Drama Association helped to put on The House of Bernarda Alba, by Federico Garcia Lorca, November 13-15. The second semester production was A Lovely Sunday for Creve Coeur, by Tennessee Williams, held March 12-14. Orchesis performed "An Evening of Theatre Dance" on October 17 and 18. They did "Kaleidoscope" during the second semester. It had a variety of student choreographed dances. The Drama Association also brought the Christopher Beck dance company to campus for a performance.

Christmas

A Time for Sharing

As decorations began to appear on campus and Christmas lights began to go up in dorm windows, students became more aware that Christmas, final exams, and that last minute Christmas shopping was rapidly approaching. The Christmas Bazaar was held in the gymnasium with a Santa Claus. The Christmas Tea was held in the afternoon before the White Gift Service. The White Gift Service, a chapel service of choral music by the Chapel Choir, was held on December 7th. The donations from the service were given to the Women's Resource Center, Canine Companions for Independence, and the Christian Children's Fund, along with several other organizations. The Religious Life Association raised approximately 1,400-1,500 dollars through student and faculty donations. Following the White Gift Service was Christmas desserts in the Green Drawing Room. The President had a Christmas party for the seniors at her house on December 11th. Although it might be hard for students to get into the Christmas spirit during exam time, even the grinch had an opportunity to get into the spirit of things.

Exams

A Stressful Time for All

Exam time. The independent exam system at Hollins is unique in that Hollins allows students to take their exams, which last no more than three hours, when they feel that they are ready. The independent exam system also takes some of the pressure off of having to take the exam on a certain day and time. However, there exist those exams which have to be taken at a certain time as scheduled by the Registrar's office.

Each exam is distributed under the Honor Code, which governs Hollins in everything we do. It is required that students pledge that they neither received help nor gave help on the exams.

Under the IES, three testing periods are set-up during the five-day exam period. Exams were picked up approximately 15 minutes before each exam was started, and students could take the tests in either Dana or Pleasants. Once the ordeal was over, students could take a deep breath, relax, and enjoy their vacations.

Jennifer Avenoso and Pam Thornton take a break after having set-up the system.

Students work hard to organize and set up the independent exam system.

Students prepare to put the exams in their respective cubby holes to be passed out during the few minutes before the exams start.

Founder's Day

A Memorial to Lewis Cocke

Thursday, February 19th dawned snowy and cold for Hollins 90th annual Founder's Day celebration. Founder's Day is in honor of Hollins founder Charles Lewis Cocke's birthday. The senior class, dressed in cap and gown met at noon on Front Quad for a class picture and the began the traditional hike up the hill to the graveyard. The first male, the retiring college treasurer Channing Howe, was chosen to accompany the seniors to the gravesite to lay the traditional wreath on the founder's grave. Following the placement of the wreath the class sang "The Green and the Gold," and began the cold decent down the hill.

Mr. Josiah Bunting, president of Hampden-Sydney College, spoke to the students at the afternoon convocation held in the chapel. A reception followed in the Green Drawing Room, ending a memorable day.

The semester started out with a bang with Maki Mandela, daughter of South African anti-apartheid leader Nelson Mandela. She spoke to students about apartheid and the oppression of South African blacks. The lecture was sponsored by the General Speakers Fund (GSF). April 14th was the day for elections for class and SGA officers for '87-'88. Prior to Cotillion, there was some confusion over which night was to be the formal one. The formal night was set for Friday night. Rod Sinclair tendered his resignation as Chaplain and a search for a replacement was begun. A high point in the semester was the announcement that the Swain House would be given to the student body as a place for having parties. The semester drew to a close with exams and then Commencement.

100th Night

A Special Night for Seniors

100th Night — an event most of us remember fondly as the most amusing, shameless evening of our senior year, and for some, “one of the most memorable ones we’ll have as seniors,” according to class historian Holly Burnett. Skits, costumes, slides, and awards, occupied our minds that evening. Much of the behind-the-scenes planning, which included arranging the date(s), the food, beverages (both beer and wine this year), the stage, the sound system, the awards, and the long list of invitees, went to the Dean of Students office and the senior class officers. This year, for the first time, the DOS office asked juniors to be servers. Holly Burnett and her committee presented the slide show and musical representation of the class over the years. It was a memorable evening as seniors began looking towards graduation.

Honors Convocation

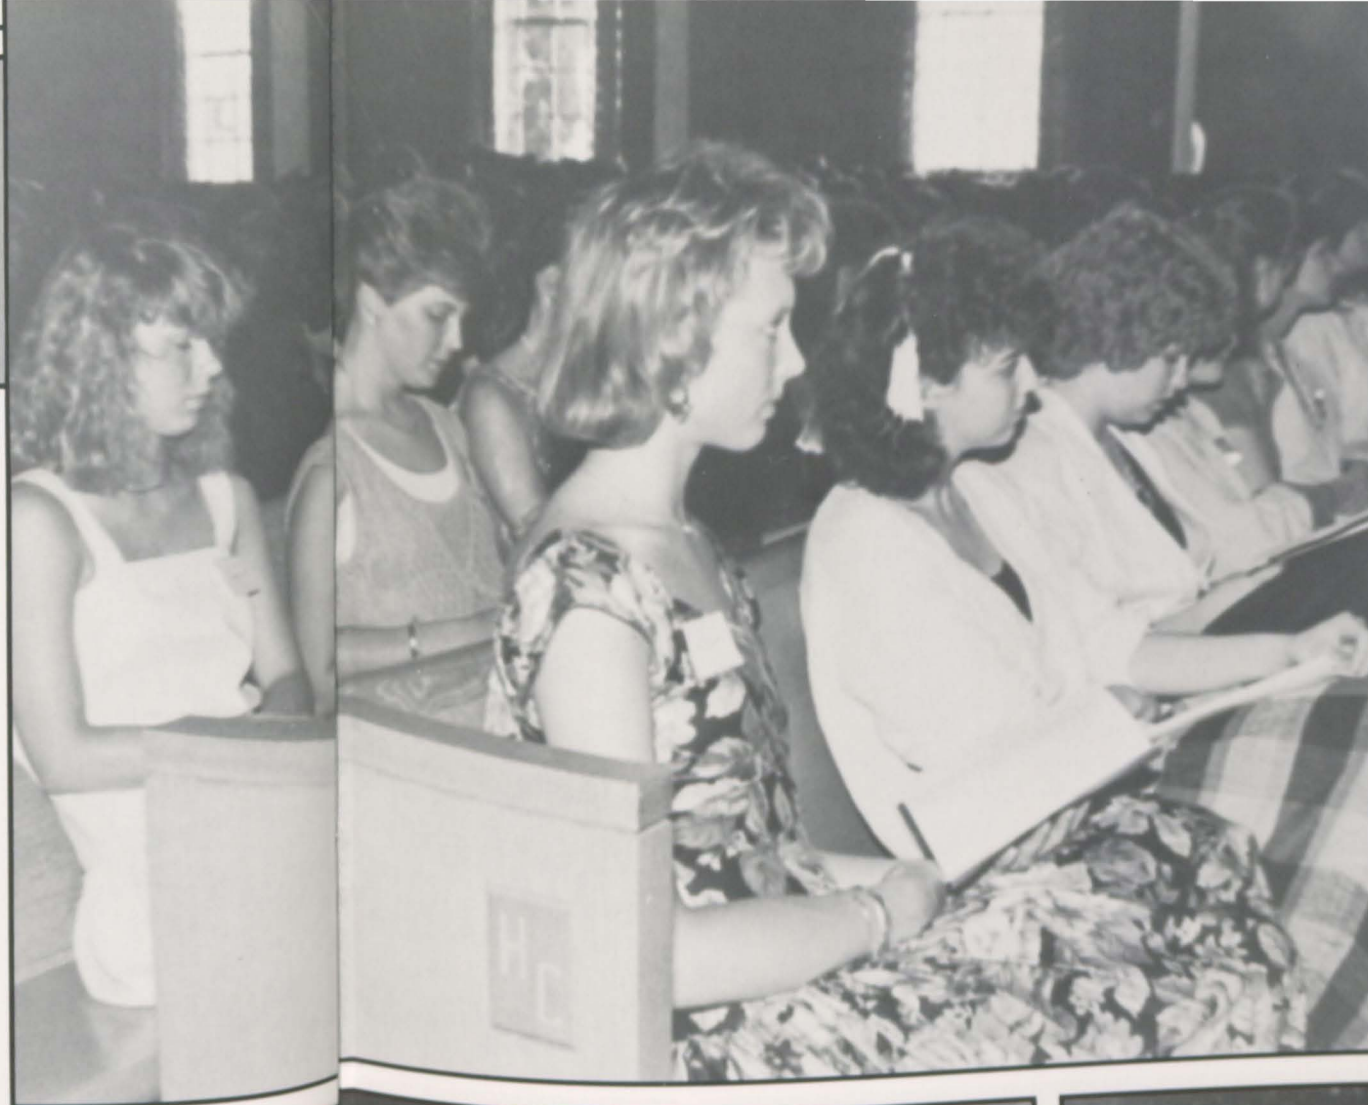

A Day to be Recognized

Honors Convocation was held on Tuesday, April 21st. Honor students are recognized and awards are given to deserving students. The Jane Lyell Stephens Aures Scholarship went to Sarah Achenbach and Heather Davis. Peggy Hall received the Mae Shelton Boger Award. The Gertrude Claytor Poetry Prize was given to Holly Burnett. Jennifer Hetrick received the German Government Award. The Hollins Fiction Prize went to Lydia Derrick and Dana Gibson. The James Lewis Howe Award went to Jacqueline Rosenwald. Jean Stackpole received the Lisa Lindsey Awards for Excellence in Theatre Arts. The Mary Vincent Long award went to Janet Carty. Beth Leitch received the Marion Garrett Lunsford Music Award. Julia Gentilini and Sandra Sickles received the F. J. McGuigan Psychology Award. Dana Gibson and Laura Tagley were named the Frances Niederer Scholars. Lillian Turner received the Andrew James Purdy Prize for Fiction. The Judith Gregory Smith Award went to Ana Foliaco. Alison Hay and Janet Carty received the Margaret Markley Smith Awards in art, and Sonya Taylor received the English award. The Nancy Thorp Poetry Prize was awarded to Lucy Ann Goldberg. Eleanor Mulin received the Wall Street Journal Student Achievement Award. The Kathryn Johnson Young Theatre Arts Award went to Cindi Raebel. Marielayna Rossillo received the Mary-Barbara Zeldin Award.

Cotillion

Around the World in 87 Days

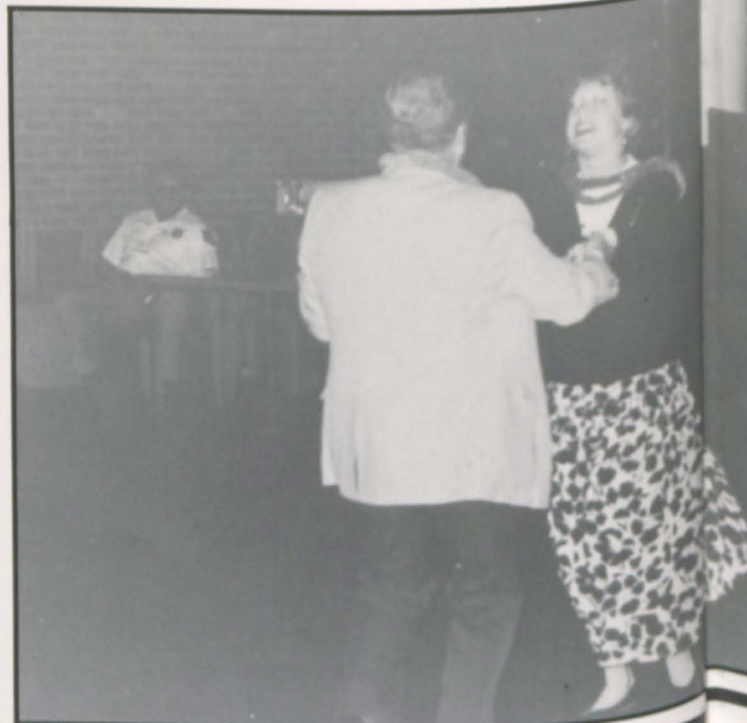

There was much discussion about Cotillion this year because the Campus Activities Committee decided to move the formal night to Friday night, instead of Saturday, which is what it had been for the past several years. The topic became a hot item around campus and in Senate meetings. Although points were made on both sides of the topic, the Campus Activities Committee stood behind their decision. The theme for the weekend was "Around the World in 87 Days." Students enjoyed the return of The White Animals to the campus after a three-year ban because of their past behavior. Friday was Black Tie Optional. Saturday was sponsored in part by the Drama Association, and the band was North Tower. The interesting party favors were a highlight of the evening. Heinsohn and Day brought the entertaining weekend to a close at the patio party behind Moody Center on Sunday afternoon.

Graduation

The Last of the Cap and Gown Occasions

As the year came to an end with final papers, theses, and exams, Commencement weekend drew closer and closer. Exams ended on May 19th, so students had a bit of a break before graduation. Friday evening there was the President's Reception for seniors, graduate students, guests, faculty, and administrators at the President's house. Saturday morning was the Commencement rehearsal for seniors and graduate students, followed by the Baccalaureate Service in the afternoon, and a Dinner Buffet and dance Saturday night. The 145th Commencement Exercises were held Sunday morning, May 24th. After the processional and invocation, President Paula Brownlee gave out twelve awards to outstanding seniors, and then introduced Amanda Little, who was chosen by the seniors to be their class speaker. Lisa Valk, publisher of Life Magazine, and class of '72 followed as the guest speaker. The ceremony ended with the presentation of degrees by Dean Bridget Puzon, and a Benediction led by Chaplain Rod Sinclair. Before students headed their separate ways, there was a Buffet Luncheon in the Moody Center following the ceremony.

Omicron Delta Kappa is a national leadership honor society, bringing together students, faculty, and administration in the promotion of leadership and scholarship on the Hollins campus. The members have worked hard this year to better educate the campus on the ideals and goals of our society. As members of ODK, we support the campus through such programs as the mentor program and the pledge-a-book drive benefitting the organizations listed on the White Gift Ballot. Prior to this year, ODK was merely seen and not heard. Our two-fold purpose of honoring and promoting leadership and scholarship was not being met. This year, every member has supported the idea that membership in ODK means working to nurture the qualities in others which gained them membership. I am immensely proud to work with the members of ODK; they are fine, dedicated people who care about the direction of the college . . .

College Republicans

A member of the College Republican Federation of Virginia, the Hollins College Republicans work on campaigns, attend leadership schools, board meetings, and two conventions each academic year. Last year, we were named "Best Small Club" in Virginia. Our goals are to place Republicans in office and keep students abreast of political issues.

Psi Chi

*P*si Chi is a national honor society which selects its members according to their demonstrated proficiency and interest in the science of psychology. This year, our chapter saw a significant increase of successful activities in an effort to promote interaction between the psychology graduate students and undergraduate members. It is my hope that some of these activities will be carried on as traditions in years to come.

The Publications Board serves as an advisory board to the Spinster, Hollins Columns, and Cargoes. Members are comprised of faculty, administration, and students. Our goal is to help the editors of the Hollins publications present the best material they are capable of producing . . . The Publications Board has dealt with many problems this year and has maintained a high level of professionalism and objectivity in solving these problems. It has been a sincere pleasure to work with these people, and I feel confident that future publications will continue to move upward, striving for excellence.

"The Hollins Columns has made great strides and I'm proud to have been it's editor. We established a working staff and fine relationships with key people on campus and off. I am comfortable leaving the paper in the hands of Becky Boone, '90, but I am also a bit sad, as well. However, it's extremely exciting to see the Hollins Columns evolve in a positive way!"

SGA

The Student Government itself is an incorporation of all students at Hollins. The many clubs and organizations sanctioned by the SGA spread widely across our campus. This year, it has been my goal to concentrate on this broad interpretation. Encouraging the best from each officer, priority attention has been given to the functions of each committee or group. Directing the focus toward the development of intensified strength within those committees has translated into extensive benefits trickling down creating and maintaining the active students sphere that is Hollins. The SGA includes all of us; its energy originates from the diverse talents and interests of the whole student body.

Mary J. Wadland
President, Student Government Association

Members of SGA are: Tracy Allen, Frederica Barney, Treasurer, Holly Burnett, Secretary, Dulany Cain, Mindy Chanaud, Ann Durden, Leslie Everhart, Shore Griffin, Holly Mackay, Kristen Martino, Heather McBougall, Laura Miller, Kirsten Moir, Maggie Nagy, Vice-President, Caroline Nolan, Margaret Oldham, Cindi Raebel, Debbie Rushton, Allegra Sedney, Paige Smith, Mary Wadland, President, Amy Ware, Cathy Woodward.

H.O.P.E.

The objective of H.O.P.E. — Hollins' Outlook on Political Education — a new club on campus, is to heighten students' awareness of current political and social issues. Our activities this year have included the Congressman Jim Olin and District opponent Flo Traywick debate, various faculty and guest lectures, a student debate, and a fundraising mixer.

As the President of the Athletic Association, I feel there has been a lot of support for athletics and for the people that play on the teams. There are a lot of women at Hollins who are involved athletically, both individually and on a team ... We have sponsored a number of different activities this year, such as the Old/New Student Picnic, the Four-Class Softball Game, a Fund-Raiser with the money going to the Special Olympics, and a Faculty/Student Game Day. It was a very successful year ...

Athletic Association

Music Association

Promoting an expansion of positive musical awareness is the primary function of the Music Association, especially in relation to those styles and trends of a more unfamiliar, unusual, or foreign nature. Workshops, films, recital events, and instrumental jam sessions aid in the accomplishment of this goal and provide entertainment, mental stimulation (in conjunction with academic relaxation), and, yes, even light-hearted frivolity.

The 1986-87 Riding team had a busy year. At the end of 1986, Heide Bossow and Cindy Fuller made the ODAC team, which consists of the top ten riders in the region.

At the end of the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association (IHSA) season, Hollins was named Reserve High Point School for Region IV.

Hollins sent eight riders to regionals this year. Heide Bossow was named High Point Rider of this Region and Cindy Fuller was named Reserve High Point Rider. Because they won their classes at regionals, Heide Bossow and Sue Wentzel qualified to go to the national competition held in Indiana.

Sue placed sixth in the Novice Equitation Over Fences. She also won the National High Point Rider Award.

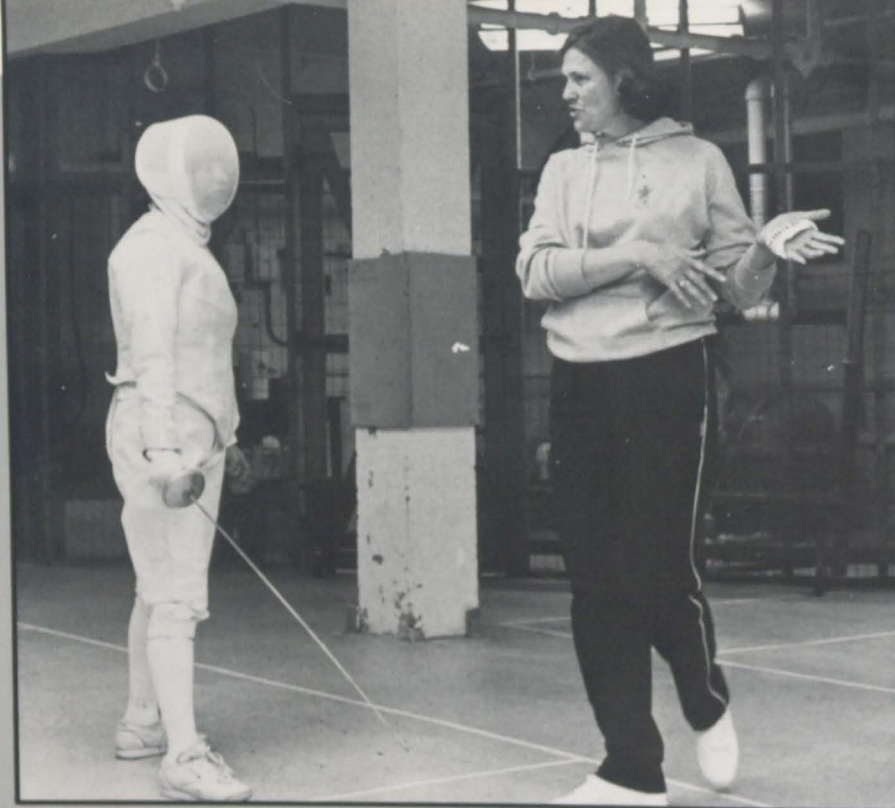

In addition to the many competitions in which Hollins participated, Ronnie Mutch conducted a clinic on his theory of riding to better performance.

On a sad note, one of the school's top show horses, pretender, had to be put down in the fall of '86 due to health problems.

Heide Bossow shows perfect form as she and Walking Tall clear this gate.

Coach Lanetta Ware explains to Debbie Myers the tactics and techniques of the last touch.
